There's a downside to being a scruffy, last-minute train-goer – you're rarely in a place to grab a decent slice of the buffet. But Wilmot's Warehouse provides a solution, offering a wide range of excellent vegan food at low prices. Even the extensive buffet boasts a good selection of vegetarian options. Ordering on the website is quick and easy, and they accept all major debit and credit cards as well as cash. The buffet runs from 12.30pm to 2pm, and the takeaway service is available from 11am to 3.30pm. The Warehouse is not new to the vegan game, opening in 2014 and holding its own since. It operates with the motto: 'Fast and tasty vegan food with a difference', and the buffet offers plenty of dishes in this category. Most come in at under £5 and you're probably familiar with a few of them. The classic, 'on the go' choice would be the 'fry up' with fried jacket potatoes and vegetables, with onion gravy. There's also a large selection of curries and hotpot dishes. You're in for a treat with the Chinese dishes, many of which are also veg-friendly, as they often rely on a base of tofu. There's also a good selection of dessert options, including pizzas, cakes, pies, and cakes. For a lighter option, the savoury breakfast options will leave you feeling less like a glutton and more like you've had an early start. Choose from pancakes, porridge, omelettes, or the less standard, hummus toast. The takeaway service is available for a range of vegan options, including pizza, burgers, sandwiches, and wraps. Most dishes are around £7, so this service is good for lunch or early dinners. With so many vegan options, it's often difficult to pick the ones that are worth visiting the buffet for. If you're a health nut or just looking for a nutritious option, the 'veg bowl' provides a great range of dishes that include a mixed veg and rice dish, followed by a selection of curries, lentils and brown rice. Not surprisingly, one of the more popular options is their 'chicken' option, although they also offer a beef option, to keep meat eaters happy. The chicken is made in-house and stuffed into a chicken drumstick. It's juicy and delicious and good for a
